ROSA L. PARKS SCHOOL OF FINE AND PERFORMING ARTS

THEATRE UPGRADE

Project Overview

Rosa L. Parks School of Fine & Performing Arts High School (RPHS), under the auspices of Paterson Public Schools, envisioned a theater upgrade that would elevate its status as a premier hub for the arts. Seeking to provide high-end performances and top-tier learning opportunities, Paterson Public Schools sought a comprehensive solution.

PureTek Group delivered a transformative overhaul, focusing on cutting-edge technology to create a space conducive to immersive experiences and creative exploration. The end result exceeded expectations, satisfying the client's desire for a sophisticated upgrade that not only met but surpassed the demands of a school dedicated to fine and performing arts.

RGBW House Lighting

The addition of RGBW house lighting revolutionizes audience immersion, allowing for customized effects that extend the stage into the house. These lights not only enhance the ambiance but also offer further customization of the auditorium, creating a fully immersive experience when combined with other lighting elements such as RGBW fin lighting

Theatrical Fog Machines

Fog machines, a staple of theatrical effects since the 1970s, provide a safe and gentle fog, also known as haze or effect smoke. This fog not only sets a moody atmosphere but also reveals light beams for dazzling effects, especially when combined with moving lights and various angles of light.

“ Now, the students are able to have a state-of-the-art theater, which is very different than what I walked into 3 years ago. When we were playing with the lights, the colors on the wall, the pictures that go onto the walls, the crystal ball - the kids were amazed! It's just overwhelming and I am happy. My kids get an experience because they are not just looking at it, they get to go hands on, and they get to work at the theatre the way they are being taught to. ”
